Information for students

Did you know that you research all the time, probably without even realising that you are doing it?

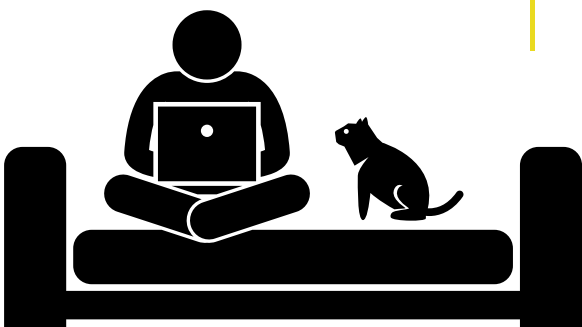

Maybe you checked the internet to find the latest sports results, or sought out the biography of a musician you really like? Every time you put in keywords for an online search or looked up something in a book or magazine, you were doing informal research!

When researching it is super important to use information from reliable, trustworthy, up-to-date sources, like Britannica School.

The Getting to Know Britannica School series of activities will help you to better grasp the skills associated with conducting research and finding authoritative information from reliable sources.

These activities cover a wide range of interesting topics and there's even a little bit of competition thrown in to spice things up.

Good Luck!
